

Subject: History

Topic: Elizabeth's Court and Parliament

Year Group: 11

Beckfoot
1. Who was Elizabeth I?			3. Who was powerful in Elizabethan England?			Key word	Definition
1	What was Elizabeth's	 Elizabeth was the daughter of Henry VIII and his 2nd queen, Anne 	1	Parliament	 Comprising the House of Lords and the House of Commons, Parliament was in charge of law-making and raising taxes. The queen decided when 	Catholic	To do with the religion of Roman Catholicism.
	parentage?	Boleyn.			to call Parliament and whether to listen to their advice or not.	Clergy	Members of a religious order, e.g. priests.
2	Who preceded Elizabeth as monarch?	 She was preceded by her half brother Edward VI (1547-53) and her half-sister Mary (1553-58). 	2	Privy Council	2. Made up Elizabeth's main advisors, mainly powerful nobles, the Privy Council was in charge of the day-to-day running of the country. The Council could meet over any issue. Councillors rarely all agreed with each other.	Court	The queen's extended household, including all who attend on her.
2. Why was it difficult to be a female ruler?			3	Lords Lieutenant	3. The Queen's representative in each county. They collected taxes and raised militias when needed. They had plenty of influence; some of them were	Courtier	Person attending the royal court as companion or advisor to the queen.
1	Succession	 As Eliz never married and never produced an heir, it was unclear who would succeed. This alarmed people. 			also Privy Councillors.	Gentry	High social class, ranked below the nobility. They might serve the
			4	Justices of the Peace	4. Each county had several JPs (or magistrates) to make sure order was kept. They were from a gentry background and ensured laws were complied with. They could sentence criminals to prison, etc.	Heir	monarch as JPs, etc. A person who has the legal right to
2	Foreign Policy	2. Eliz had to keep England secure against Catholic nations (France & Spain) who had the support of the Pope. They saw Eliz as potentially weak. The Netherlands was a	5	The Royal Court 5 a t	5. The Royal court was made up of government officials, ladies-in-waiting, advisors and servants – all the people who surrounded the monarch on a day to day basis. It was the centre of the social life of the monarch, but important		receive property or title of another on that person's death.
						Illegitimate	Born outside marriage. Illegitimate children could not be monarchs.
3	Ireland	 point of conflict. 3. Eliz was Queen of Ireland, but Irish rebellions occurred against her rule (e.g. 1559). She spent vast sums trying to subdue Ireland. 	6	Privy Councillors also attended. KEY INDIVIDUAL: 6. Elizabeth's most trusted advisor. He was Secretary of State (i.e. leader of the Privy Council) during two different periods. He encouraged Elizabeth to fight Catholic rivals at home and abroad. He played a key role in Elizabeth's religious policies. His influence was massive.	Justices of the Peace (JPs)	Judicial officer appointed by the monarch to help keep order in a county.
					fight Catholic rivals at home and abroad. He played a key role in Elizabeth's	Legislation	Laws; the process of making and enacting laws.
4	Taxation	 Raising taxes was unpopular as poverty was widespread – yet Eliz needed income to ensure her government could achieve the things she wanted. 	7	KEY INDIVIDUAL: Francis Walsingham	7. Walsingham was Elizabeth's "spy master" who made sure dissent was uncovered. He was a very close advisor who helped establish England as force at sea and played a key role in the execution of Mary Queen of Scots.	Monopolies	The exclusive right to trade in a particular product.
				(c1532-90)		Patriarchy	A system of government in which the power tends to reside with men.
5	Religion	5. Elizabeth was a Protestant who wanted to end the see-sawing of religious policy. She was practical and allowed Catholics to practice privately. But some plotted against her, and the rise of Puritans was also a problem.	4	Why was the marriage	e question important to Elizabeth?	Patronage	Land, titles or power given to ensure
			1	What was the role of marriage?	 Marriage could create an alliance with a foreign country or the support of a powerful noble family. It could prevent Mary Queen of Scots from ruling England. But it had risks: it could lead to England falling under a foreign king's control. 	Privy Council	an individual's support. A monarch's private counsellors.
			2			Progress	A tour of their kingdom by a monarch and his or her retinue and entourage.
6	Mary Queen of Scots	6. Without a direct heir, Mary, A Catholic, was next in line to the throne. She was exiled from Scotland and under house arrest in England. As a focus for Catholic rebels, Mary was a massive problem for Elizabeth.	2	Who were Elizabeth's main suitors?	 Robert Dudley, earl of Leicester. Childhood favourite. Key figure at court and in the Council. But scandal surrounded his former wife's death. King Philip II of Spain. He was Elizabeth's brother-in-law as he'd married her half sister Mary. Massively rich and powerful as Spain was exploiting south America's riches. But he was a Catholic Francis, duke of Anjou and Alencon. Brother to the French king and heir to the throne of France. But Elizabeth was 46 when this idea emerged, so a childless marriage could lead to England falling under French power. 	Suitor	A man who aims to marry a particular woman.
			3	Why was there controversy with	3. By 1566 discussions about marriage happened in Parliament. Many MPs saw it as their role to secure the future of the country. But Peter Wentworth was arrested for ignoring the queen's orders on discussing a marriage. Elizabeth believed the decision was hers, without any interference from Parliament.

Parliament over the Marriage?